TEN CENTS A WEEK

HALF OF KEY WEST DESTROYED BY STORM

At a Single Life Was Lost on East Coast Extension, As Warning Was Given.

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 13.—Half of city is practically in ruins, over homes have been destroyed and more than a hundred ships wrecked as a result of the hurricane which hit this city Monday afternoon. Ten churches and nine of the large cigar factories in the South also were destroyed. Hundreds of men are at work cleaning up the streets under the direction of Mayor Fogarty. One death is reported, that of Frank Gray, a photographer. Yesterday hundreds of homeless people were roaming the streets. Fortunately the weather was bright and warm and there was little physical suffering. The War Department has instructed the commandant of the coast artillery companies stationed here to aid the local authorities in every way possible. Tents and bedding will be distributed by the soldiers. At this time no estimate can be given of the financial loss as incurred from the storm, but it is believed that it will be between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. It will be weeks and in some instances months before the big tobacco factories will be able to resume operations and business generally at a standstill for at least several days.

In the residence districts the streets in many instances were rendered impassable by the ruins of the houses. Whole buildings were picked up by the gale and hurled across the street and only the advance warnings of the weather bureau prevented a heavy loss of life.

Four Lives Lost.

Along the water front the beaches were strewn with the wreckage of small boats of all kinds, and here hardly a building was left standing, while piers and wharves were all swept away. At the time the storm broke there were nearly 100 vessels in the harbor; the majority of these were swept to sea or broken up on the beaches.

Second Mate Andrew Cooper, of the schooner Medford, lost his life at the Government wharf and his body was washed overboard. Three members of the crew of another schooner are missing and it is thought they were drowned.

Matacumbe reports no loss of life there.

The United States weather bureau and ship reporting station at Sank Key was swept to sea. Observers Dague, Kelter and Willard, on duty there, are safe.

The launch "Lunette," with the crew of the dredge "Nimke," arrived here yesterday afternoon, bringing additional details of the effects of the hurricane along the coast. The dredge "Nimke" of the East Coast extension fleet lies disabled in No. 5 trestle fill between Matacumbe and Long Key, which is badly washed in places. The grade of the extension at Jewfish bush is washed away, the dock at Pigeon Key is wrecked, the fill at Knights Key is washed away, leaving the trestle firm, the approach to the viaduct at Long Key is gone and wreckage is piled on the shore everywhere.

All of the massive concrete viaducts of the extension are reported safe, as is the bridge from Knights Key to the piers. The master of the "Lunette" reported that in coming down he saw several dredges and concrete mixers submerged along the coast, in some cases miles from the work.

Many small boats and other wreckage were seen on the shore, but he could not say whether there was any loss of life.

Many Narrow Escapes.

J. F. Gray, the photographer, lost his life in attempting to save his boat.

A. M. Ferguson was struck by flying wood and is in a critical condition. There were many narrow escapes from collapsing houses and that the fatalities were not greater is regarded as miraculous.

The damage to the barracks alone will total $250,000.

Thirteen churches were blown down, the only ones in the city remaining standing being one Catholic, one Methodist and one Baptist.

Of the many factories which suffered from the fury of the wind, John Wardlow's, the Lopez factory, the Nicholas and Pohalski's are complete wrecks.

The factory place occupied by A. Torree was blown down, as was also the place occupied by Thomas Reedy as a furniture store.

Not a single residence or business house in the city escaped flooding, and few were uninjured by the wind.

A scene of devastation presents itself from every side. Telephone, telegraph and electrical poles, trees and tin roofs are lying in every street, the thoroughfares are impassable and debris of all kinds litters the entire city.

All the wharves along the water front suffered. Curry's and Sweeney's being demolished. Many small vessels were crushed against the fishing wharf when the steamer "McAdam" dragged her anchor and was driven along helplessly by the severe gale. The "McAdam" went down, but all on board were rescued.

Hundreds of men will continue the work of clearing the streets of debris.

NOT A LIFE LOST.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Oct. 13.—Replying to rumors of great loss of life on the Florida East Coast railway as a result of the hurricane, Vice-President J. P. Beckwith gave to the Associated Press last night the following statement:

"Positively not a life was lost in the recent storm. Very little damage was done to the right-of-way or work on the extension. Our line will be opened for traffic within forty-eight hours to Knights Key.

"Warning by weather bureau enabled us to fully protect all equipment and employees."

RESIGNATION OF CRANE IS DEMANDED BY KNOX

Crane Complains Bitterly at What He Considers the Injustice of the State Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, minister designate to China, yesterday was practically deposed by a demand from Secretary Knox for his resignation.

Thus a new chapter in American diplomacy was written. A citizen chosen with special regard for his qualifications for the post was recalled before he had embarked from San Francisco and discharged from his high office because of alleged indiscreet disclosures through the press.

Moreover, this minister, breaking through all the old traditions, insisted on defending himself from the aspersions cast upon him by the Secretary of State by the issuance of a statement which most people here commend upon as certain to be very embarrassing to the administration.

The history of this extraordinary affair, which began about a week ago with the announcement that Minister Crane had been stopped at San Francisco at the moment of embarkation for his post by a demand from Secretary Knox for his return to Washington, reached at least its first crisis soon after noon yesterday, when the Secretary in a formal statement announced that Mr. Crane's resignation had been invited, and the minister designate replied in an equally formal statement that while his resignation already had been tendered to the President, he felt himself very unjustly treated.

Moreover, Mr. Crane in his statement reflected very severely upon the officials of the State Department, charging that not only had they refrained from giving him the instructions usually issued to a minister or ambassador about to leave for his post, but that he had been denied access to them even after he had made repeated appointments with them.

On Taft's Shoulders.

He enters a sweeping denial of the charge that he "gave out" a newspaper story which is said to be the cause of his deposition and places squarely upon the shoulders of President Taft the responsibility for the various utterances he has made regarding conditions in the Far East, which have aroused the ire of Secretary Knox and for final action upon his resignation.

In his statement, Mr. Crane said: "The statement issued by the Department of State is slightly inaccurate in saying that the Secretary has informed me that my resignation will be accepted. The letter which I received from Mr. Knox at noon yesterday says that he has recommended to the President that the President accept my resignation. Before this letter had been received by me I had already sent to the President, through

Clay County Voted Dry in Election Held Tuesday

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Oct. 13.—The wet or dry election here yesterday was very exciting all day. Green Cove Springs precinct gives 45 dry majority. The six precincts thus far heard from increase the dry majority to about 100 and the indications are that the drys will be victorious in the county by about 150 majority.

The down-stairs rooms of the court house were used by the ladies as their headquarters and song-singing and praying was the order of the day.

They served a nice dinner to all who would accept. As each voter entered the children yelled "What's the matter with John Smith? He's all right. Who is all right? John Smith."

Then they sang a song as the voter toddled upstairs to the sound of the organ, etc. There was a full vote cast.

The high school closed for the day.

so as to allow parents wanting their children at the polls to have them there as individuals and not as representatives of the school.

Superintendent Biggs refused to allow the W. C. T. U. to organize the high school into a temperance society as a unit. The ladies refused any compromise, such as taking those whose parents were willing to another building. The superintendent stood his ground and will refer the matter to the board of education.

Two years ago an angry parent took his school children from the court house where they were helping sing temperance songs, and was removed as a subdistrict trustee by the board. The attitude of the school this time has been one of armed neutrality.

Armed Citizens Search for 18-Year-Old Desperado

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 13.—Scores of armed citizens were searching Monday night for Earl Bullock, an 18-year-old desperado, who Monday robbed the State Bank at Eudora and later perhaps fatally wounded Policeman Wilson Pringle, who attempted to arrest him at his mother's home here. Bullock was arrested in Eudora by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Woods on a charge of robbing a store.

Desiring to talk with E. E. Wilson, cashier of the State Bank in Eudora, the deputy took the boy with him.

While Woods and Wilson were talking Bullock drew two revolvers and ordered them to throw up their hands. Then he marched them into a vault and locked the door. Snatching $1,000 he fled. Two hours later citizens released the two men from the vault and a search for Bullock was started.

Policeman Pringle traced the boy to his mother's home and went there to capture him. Bullock shot down the policeman and made a successful dash for liberty.

Lines With Conductor; Sues Pullman Company

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 13.—Because of alleged negligence on the part of the Pullman Car Company forced her to dine at one of the South's best hotels in company with a handsome Pullman conductor, Miss Conyers Pritchett, a trained nurse, of this city, not only sued the car company, but has awarded damages in the sum of $25. In her petition for damages Miss Pritchett did not allege that the dinner served at Savannah's most noted hotel was not all that she could have asked, she failed to allege that the conductor was not the soul of thoughtfulness and politeness, she didn't even claim that everything didn't go just as it should.

She did set up, though, that she was embarrassed.

According to the evidence in the case, Miss Pritchett boarded a Central train in Atlanta several months ago, intending to go to Americus. She took passage on a Pullman car. She was confident that when she reached her destination that a bowing and tippecting porter would show up and assist her with her luggage.

She rode on and on, and after thinking that she had had ample time to reach her destination she asked how much longer the journey was to last. To her consternation, she was told that Americus was now far in the rear and the train was speeding toward Savannah at a 50-mile clip. The conductor was solicitous in the extreme and suggested that Miss Pritchett make the trip through to Savannah and return on the next train.

At this point Miss Pritchett's embarrassment began to make itself felt. She did not have with her sufficient money to pay for the return passage from Savannah and her accommodations while in the city. Her embarrassment increased as she frankly told the conductor of her predicament. Later, after considerable pressure on the part of the conductor, she agreed that he should lend her funds sufficient for her needs.

On returning to Americus the following day, however, Miss Pritchett found that another nurse had been employed in her place, and she was forced to return to Atlanta without the $60 she had expected to receive for her services.

In her petition, for damages Miss Pritchett set out that she should be repaid her railroad fare, the $60 which she would have earned and something for her embarrassment. As her railroad fare was in the neighborhood of $15, the jury decided that she had been embarrassed $125 worth.

stock of furniture to the value of almost $1,000, was demolished.

The machine stopped about half way the length of the store, where its weight slowly sank it through the planks of the floor and where it stood for some hours after, with the rear high up in the air. Engineer Horn, who was in charge of the roller, held to his place while it raced down the long Lawrence street hill for two blocks, and jumped just in time to escape going into the building with it. The escaping gasoline, with which it is operated, was afire and he ran the last block in a veritable blaze of the burning oil.

WILL STROBLE HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

JUDGE MASON BOUND HIM OVER
TO CIRCUIT COURT.

Came Near Killing Another Negro by Cutting Him to Pieces Two Weeks Ago.

Will Stroble, the negro, who seriously cut another negro by the name of Chas. Gist about twelve days since, was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Mason Wednesday afternoon and bound over to await the action of the circuit court.

Stroble was held in the sum of $5,000, and while the charge against the negro was a most serious one, Judge Mason made it light to see if he could not give the bond. He is charged in the warrant with assault with intent to kill, and had it not been for the best of attention at the hands of the doctors, he would have probably done the latter, for Gist was badly cut to pieces.

While Gist is able to be up and attend court, he is yet unable to walk and has to be carried about in a vehicle, which shows that his wounds are of a serious nature.

Stroble is considered one of the bad negro characters of the city and has on numerous occasions showed that he was not of the ordinary humble kind, but his last attempt at slashing will very likely prove a lesson to him that he will not soon forget.

SUSTAINS INJURED LEG.

J. W. Bennett Happens to Accident at Eddins Factory Wednesday.

J. W. Bennett, well-known about this city and who has for the past several years been employed at the sash and door factory of the Eddins Manufacturing Company, happened to a painful but not serious accident Wednesday afternoon.

In some manner the clamp which holds the doors in position while they are being sand-papered with a large roller, flew up and came loose, the lower part of which struck Mr. Bennett on the leg. A hurried examination was made and the wounded man sent to his home in Mr. Eddins' buggy, and a physician summoned.

At last accounts the patient was resting well and it is not thought that the accident will prove serious, but that he will be able to be out within a short while, which will be gratifying news to his many friends.

PITTSBURG WINS FIFTH GAME.

Unless Detroit Wins the Contest Today Series Will Be Over.

Thirty-one thousand eager spectators crowded into Schibe Park in Pittsburgh yesterday and witnessed the defeat of the Detroit Tigers at the hands of the Pittsburgh team. Should the Pirates win today's game the series will be over, but if Detroit should manage to take the game, the seventh will be played in some city appointed by the national commission.

The result was again displayed at the Brown House and much interest manifested the same as the day previous.

Detroit secured six hits yesterday, while Pittsburgh gathered ten. Detroit errored once and Pittsburgh twice. The game was played in one hour and forty minutes.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weakness, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

Inconsistent With Self-Respect.

"Washington, D. C., Oct. 12, 1909.
President William H. Taft:

"The State Department objects to certain things I have done in the effort to carry out my understanding of your wishes as expressed by you to me. I have carefully considered the entire matter. In my judgment no mistake has been made except as the department has made it a mistake. However, I do not and cannot guarantee to make no mistakes, especially unless I have the cordial support and co-operation of the Government. The manner in which the department has proceeded and is proceeding is inconsistent with my own self-respect and my conception of the dignity of the position and with the understanding upon which I accepted it.

"I appreciate the personal consideration I have received from you and under all the circumstances have decided to await information as to your wishes before taking action.

"You will understand, of course, that my resignation is in your hands.

(Signed) "CHARLES R. CRANE."

As to That Interview.

"The statement of the department is further inaccurate in saying that I gave out a newspaper story about the preparation of a protest in regard to the agreement between China and Japan. It would have been more accurate if the statement had said as was indicated in its own closing paragraph that a brief conversation of mine with a newspaper representative contributed to the publication by him of a discussion of this agreement, and the possibility of a protest by this Government and that the department regarded this conversation as 'indiscreet.'

"The publication referred to did not mention my name, nor in my judgment would it have been a mistake if the Department of State had not chosen to vouch for its accuracy and give to it an official significance by its own conduct.

"It certainly contains nothing of substance that was not matter of

STRINGFELLOW HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

BUILDING FLOODED WITH WA-TER, WHICH WAS GREATER.

Two Alarms Sent in at Same Time
From Different Boxes for
This Blaze.

The handsome home of J. D. Stringfellow, corner of Arredondo and West Liberty streets, was badly damaged by water early Wednesday morning and suffered a loss of about $100 by fire.

When first discovered an alarm was turned in from Box 52, also another alarm from Box 25, and this caused the department a few minutes' delay.

A greater part of the roof was torn and cut away in order to get to the flames, which had spread on the inside of the roof by falling through, and it was necessary to pursue this course after it had gained such headway, although apparently a great amount of unnecessary water was used in extinguishing the flames.

Good and effective work was done by the few firemen who were present after they reached the building, for it was only a short while before the fire was extinguished, but the damage by water to the building is estimated at about $500, while the furniture also suffered to some extent.

It is thought that the blaze caught from a spark from the chimney, as when first seen only a very small spot on the roof was burning.

common knowledge or deducible by any competent newspaper reporter from facts commonly known. The substance if not the full text of the agreement had been published and its effect had been widely discussed."

"St. Elmo."

Neil Twomey, who has dramatized Augusta J. Evans' novel "St. Elmo," set himself no small task when he set out to work over into stage-form the crowded incidents and dramatic situations of the book.

To make clear to an audience in a theatre the characters and motives of the creatures of an author's fancy when deprived of the author's privilege of explaining at length in the printed page those essential characteristics which go to make up rational human beings is always the stumbling block of the dramatist when using material originated by another. In a work like "St. Elmo," the task is particularly exacting, for the novel has enjoyed so widespread a popularity since it was written almost fifty years ago, that to make any material change in character or situation would be to offend those to whom the works of Miss Evans are classics.

It is safe to say that no other native author ever commanded the attention of a more devoted following than did Miss Evans, in proof whereof it need only be pointed out that the book today is as popular as it was when new and that in spite of the changing popular taste in literature.

"St. Elmo" also is exceptionally rich in descriptive scenes and lengthy philosophical discussions, all of which must of necessity be discarded in preparing the book for stage use. On behalf of Mr. Twomey it is said that he has succeeded in writing a faithful dramatic version, free from the taint of melodrama and in every way a dignified presentment of the dramatic features of Miss Evans' work. Admirers of the famous Southern author will be interested in noting how well the dramatist has done his work, while to those for whom the theatre is of interest only so far as it serves to amuse, a play of great dramatic value has been prepared and expense has not been spared either in scenic features or in securing a cast of players who will intelligently interpret the work of both author and dramatist.

It will be seen on Friday, October 15th, at the Baird Theatre. Tickets now on sale at McCollum's.

SPRING HILL SECTION.

Other case came to light on Wednesday wherein another party was dying and dying for the want of attention. In this instance the party was an aged negro man, George Altman who resides in the edge of Spring Hill and has for the past fifty or twenty years made Gainesville his home.

When seen yesterday by the reporter and Marshal Owens the old man was in a starving condition, stated that he had been confined in his room for the past six weeks unable to wait upon himself. His neighbors had, up to a few days since, helped in occasionally to give him a cornbread or fried bacon, but no class of food was more than he could stand just at this time. Some weeks since he would have been able to receive this, but after the serious sickness with which he was affected he had become so weak that he was unable to take anything stronger than light nourishment.

Marshal Owens made the necessary mediate arrangements for the negro and will endeavor to have him in care of for the next few days, until his condition improves.

This is the second instance within a week where it has been plainly seen that some provision should be made by the City Council for the care of such unfortunates, for unless it is a public subscription has to be taken for their care. This work is very disagreeable and places a hardship on the parties who generally have this duty to perform.

One member of the council has already signified his intention of bringing the matter before that body and if some action cannot be taken in cases of emergency like this and one of Monday, and while some opposed, it is hoped that they will make the necessary provision for future cases.

DEATH OF MISS SHANNON.

Dies Very Suddenly While Visiting Relatives in Jacksonville.

The remains of Miss Lillie Shannon, who died very suddenly at the home of her cousin, Dr. F. D. Miller, in Jacksonville, on Tuesday afternoon at 10 from acute heart failure, arrived in the city yesterday at noon over the Atlantic Coast Line, accompanied by Mr. Irwin, and were at once taken to the home of her parents in East Gainesville.

She appeared to be in the best of health at the noon hour, and when she partaken of dinner with other members of the household spoke of taking a short rest and nap, when intended to go up town and do some shopping.

Nothing was thought of the occurrence after that until her aunt had returned from a short call at the above place and noticed the lady to be lacking hard, when a physician was called. She expired shortly afterwards, the physician pronouncing her death due to heart failure.

Miss Shannon was born and reared in this city and up to within a few years since had been engaged as a professional nurse, working in the hospitals and private practice in Jacksonville.

She had only a short while before come to Jacksonville to visit her cousins and relatives, and was expected to return to Gainesville within a few days.

The funeral will be conducted from the family residence this morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. F. R. Bridges and will be held at Evergreen Cemetery.

COAL SUPPLY INEXHAUSTIBLE.

There are 3,064,334,111,000 tons of coal yet remaining in the U. S. according to a report by E. W. Parker of the U. S. Geological Survey, who states that the total production in 1908 was 415,842,638 tons, which would seem to indicate the last cinder would drop into the ashbox some 7,355 years hence, or along about the year 9,295. If the coal is not all gone by that time Mr. Parker will be glad to explain the reason to anyone who calls. He says the revised estimates place the total original coal supply of the United States at 3,076,204,000,000 short tons, of which 1,922,979,000,000 short tons are considered to be easily accessible. Classified by the character of the coal, the original supply consisted of 21,000,000 short tons of anthracite, 1,661,457,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, 650,157,000,000 tons of sub-bituminous coal and 743,590,000,000 tons of lignite.

The total production of coal in the United States at the close of 1908 was 728,940,265 short tons, which, including the waste involved in the mining and preparation, represented an exhaustion of 11,870,049,900 tons, leaving as the apparent supply still available 3,064,340,011,000 tons, or 99.6 per cent of the original supply; that is to say, up to the beginning of 1909 only four-tenths of one per cent of the original supply of coal has been exhausted. The quantity of coal still available at the close of 1908 was 7,359 times the production in that year and 4,913 times the exhaustion represented by that production.

The efforts of the Simplified Spelling Board to effect changes in the form of our language run against two serious obstacles. One is the logic of etymology, which retains for the gratification of the eye and the intellect traces of the words which we have adopted in our language from the language of other people. The other is the inability to understand that a language grows of itself, and that common usage must prevail in the end. In fact, many of the "simplified" forms are merely a return to the spelling used by our ancestors. Johnson's Dictionary, which was compiled nearly two centuries ago, gives "era," "ether," "etiology" and the like, simplifying the initial diphthong to a single letter. Others give "phenix" and "frenzy" and "tho" and "thro," and innumerable other forms which are now proposed as novelties. They also gave "soder" for "solder" and "swop" for "swap" and "skin" for "skein" and "hoop" for "whoop." In some cases we spell now as they spelled 200 years ago, after having passed through a period of variation which was temporary, not because it was temporary, not because people did not like it.

Yes, it would be a nice thing to have East Liberty street paved with vitrified brick, but it would result in the confiscation of the property of several people who are not able to stand the expense. The property owners on this street have not all as yet been able to meet their sidewalk paving bills, and as they have been burdened with these improvements it would be more in keeping with equity to require property owners around the square, and on a portion of West Liberty street, to pave with vitrified brick. Give the poor widows a rest for a while, at least.

Miss Canada shows a disposition to nag a little over the question of the North Pole's ownership. If Miss Canada will go up there and sit on the pole and stay there and hold her tongue, she can have it. We don't want the old pole—all we wanted was to do the discovery stunt.

RIGHT CULTIVATION NEEDED.

Alarmists tell us that in time the population of this world will be so great that there will not be food enough to sustain it. That day, even if it should come, is so far in the distance that the prediction does not worry people. On the other hand, there are optimists who assure us that the food supply will always be abundant.

Probably the truth lies between the two statements. If imperfect methods of cultivation are followed so that the soil is worn out it will not take long to get face to face with starvation. Some ancient countries have been ruined by such methods and today in our own land there are large tracts of worn out soil, made so by bad farming.

But where good farming is followed the soil retains and even increases its fertility. In England centuries of bad farming so impoverished the soil that 200 years ago the yield of wheat was but eight bushels to the acre. Improved farming has now brought the yield up to thirty-two bushels. Here in our own land better cultivation, the irrigation of the semi-arid soils of the West and the draining of swamp lands North and South will result in such an increased productivity of the land that the fear of food shortage will cease and the farmers, orchardists and stockraisers receive greater returns for their labor.

If they nag Dr. Cook much more he will go down and snake that old South Pole, too.

PEARY'S EVIDENCE AGAINST DR. COOK

Alleges Cook Did Not Reach North Pole.

PROOF OF STATEMENT.

Witnesses Quoted Are Cook's Eskimo Boys.

NATIVES LAUGH AT CLAIM.

Point Out Limit of Explorer's Journey on Carefully Prepared Map.

New York, October 12.—The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted, together with the accompanying map, to the Peary Arctic Club in support of his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North Pole, is now made public for the first time. The statement and map have been copyrighted by the Peary Arctic Club.

(Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1909, by the Peary Arctic Club, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.)

INTRODUCTION BY PEARY.

Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the North Pole will be understood by those who read the following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Anoratok in February, 1908, were at Etah when I arrived there in August, 1908. They told me that Dr. Cook had with him, after they left, two Eskimo boys or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah. I had known them from their childhood. One was about eighteen and the other about nineteen years of age.

On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me, in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, said that this was not so. The Eskimos laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah, I talked with the Eskimos there and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below.

(Signed) R. E. PEARY.

SIGNED STATEMENT OF PEARY, BARTLETT, McMILLAN, BORUP AND HENSON, IN REGARD TO TESTIMONY OF COOK'S TWO ESKIMO BOYS.

The two Eskimo boys, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, who accompanied Dr. Cook while he was away from Anoratok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-took-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and the last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth.

Their testimony was unshaken by cross-examination, was corroborated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two boys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called in, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, pointing out with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

As he went out, the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of I-took-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Eskimos that came back from Dr. Cook from the northern end of Nansen's Strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones Sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same gether, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally, Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the portions of the route with which he was personally familiar.

The bulk of the boys' testimony was not taken by Commander Peary, nor in his presence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

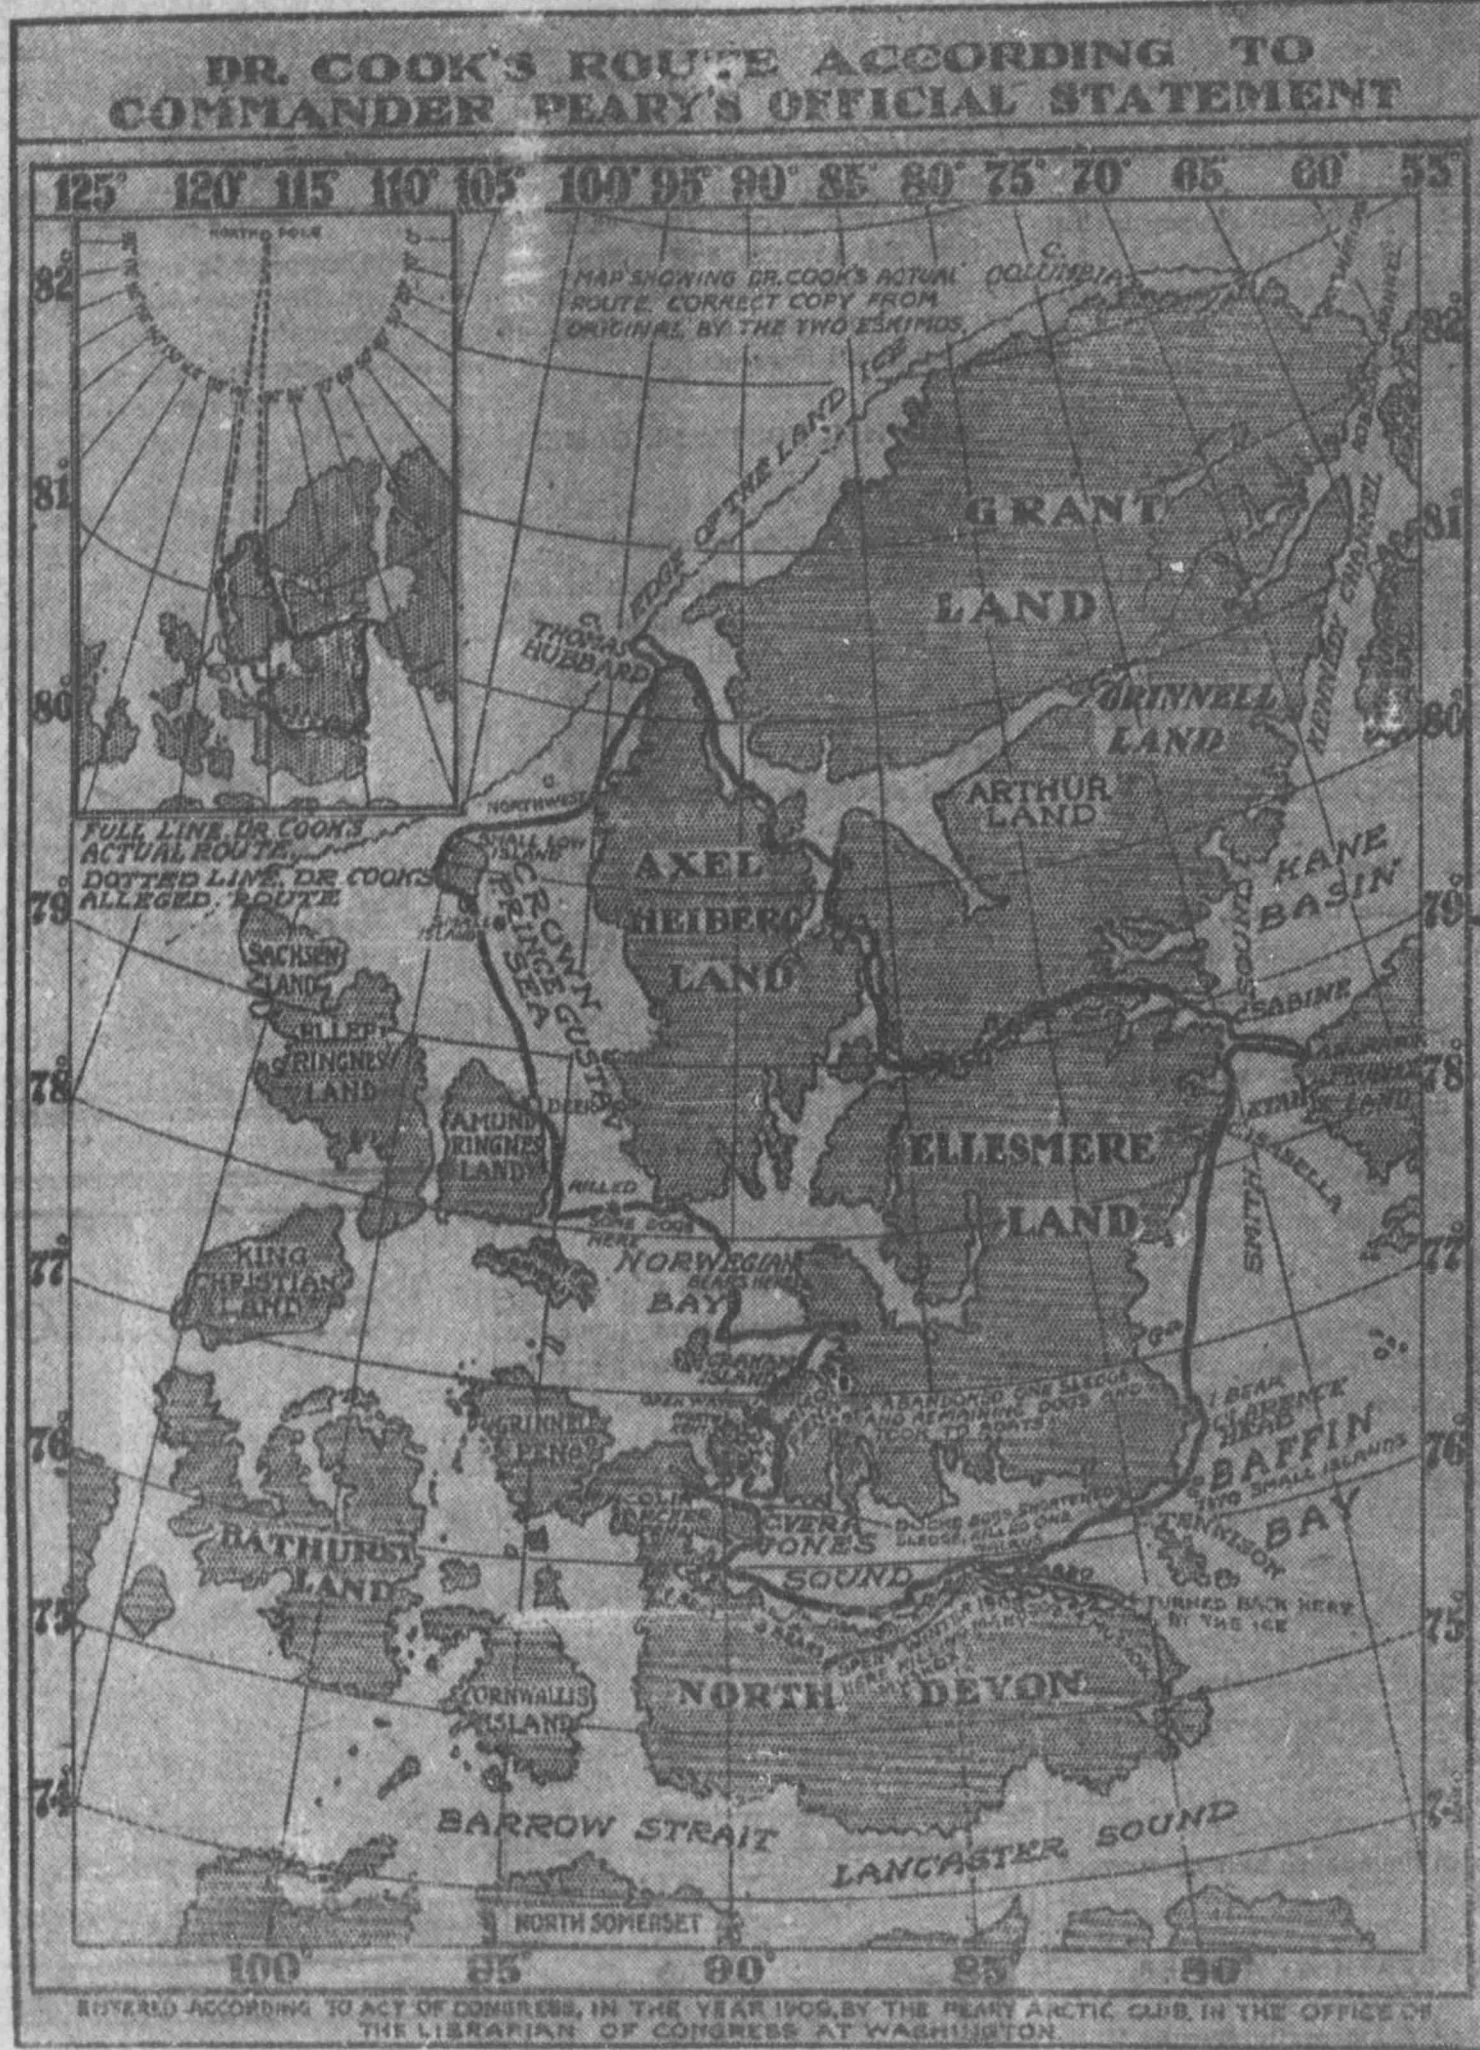

Certain questions on independent lines from the direct narrative of the Eskimo boys were suggested by Commander Peary to some of us, and were put by us to the Eskimo boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Eskimo boys two or three casual questions on minor points that had occurred to him.

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Eskimos, left Anoratok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches Francke and three Eskimos returned to Anoratok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay, a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's "Bay Florid" on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Their route then lay out through this fjord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heuerka Sound" and Nansen Strait. On their way they killed musk-oxen

The accompanying map is reproduced exactly from the original submitted by Commander Peary with his official statement by which he hopes to prove that Dr. Frederick A. Cook never reached the north pole. The map purports to have been traced out in the presence of the two Eskimos who were with Dr. Cook and, according to Peary, is based upon their actual statements as to Cook's entire journey. The dotted lines in the small map in the upper left hand corner is the route which Dr. Cook says he took on his journey to and from the pole after leaving Cape Thomas Hubbard. The irregular line extending northeast from Isachsen Land is the edge of the land ice, beyond which, Peary declares, Dr. Cook did not venture.

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where, according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, musk-oxen and musk-oxen.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the chart to

During the making of this testimony it developed that Dr. Cook had told these boys, as he told Mr. Whitne and Billy Fritchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and the boys stated Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows:

and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen Strait (shore of Axel Heiberg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cape Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others, Koolootingwah and

Point Out Limit of Explorer's Journey on Carefully Prepared Map.

New York, October 12.—The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted, together with the accompanying map, to the Peary Arctic Club in support of his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North Pole, is now made public for the first time. The statement and map have been copyrighted by the Peary Arctic Club.

(Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1909, by the Peary Arctic Club, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.)

INTRODUCTION BY PEARY.

Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the North Pole will be understood by those who read the following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Anoratok in February, 1908, were at Etah when I arrived there in August, 1908. They told me that Dr. Cook had with him, after they left, two Eskimo boys or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah. I had known them from their childhood. One was about eighteen and the other about nineteen years of age.

On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me, in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, said that this was not so. The Eskimos laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah, I talked with the Eskimos there and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below.

(Signed) R. E. PEARY.

SIGNED STATEMENT OF PEARY, BARTLETT, McMILLAN, BORUP AND HENSON, IN REGARD TO TESTIMONY OF COOK'S TWO ESKIMO BOYS.

The two Eskimo boys, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, who accompanied Dr. Cook while he was away from Anoratok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-took-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and the last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth.

Their testimony was unshaken by cross-examination, was corroborated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two boys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called in, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, pointing out with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

As he went out, the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of I-took-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Eskimos that came back from Dr. Cook from the northern end of Nansen's Strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones Sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same gether, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally, Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the portions of the route with which he was personally familiar.

The bulk of the boys' testimony was not taken by Commander Peary, nor in his presence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

Certain questions on independent lines from the direct narrative of the Eskimo boys were suggested by Commander Peary to some of us, and were put by us to the Eskimo boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Eskimo boys two or three casual questions on minor points that had occurred to him.

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Eskimos, left Anoratok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches Francke and three Eskimos returned to Anoratok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay, a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's "Bay Fiord" on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Their route then lay out through this fiord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heureka Sound" and Nansen Strait. On their way they killed musk-oxen.

The accompanying map is reproduced exactly from the original submitted by Commander Peary with his official statement by which he hopes to prove that Dr. Frederick A. Cook never reached the north pole. The map purports to have been traced out in the presence of the two Eskimos who were with Dr. Cook and, according to Peary, is based upon their actual statements as to Cook's entire journey. The dotted lines in the small map in the upper left hand corner is the route which Dr. Cook says he took on his journey to and from the pole after leaving Cape Thomas Hubbard. The irregular line extending northeast from Isachsen Land is the edge of the land ice, beyond which, Peary declares, Dr. Cook did not venture.

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where, according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, walrus and musk-oxen.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the chart to-

During the making of this testimony it developed that Dr. Cook had told these boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Fitzhard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and the boys stated Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows:

and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen Strait (shore of Axel Heiberg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cape Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others, Koolootingwah and another, went on one more march

Dr. Cook and the two boys, help-build the snow igloo, then re- build without sleeping. The two Eskimos brought back a message from Dr. Cook to Francke, dated 17th of March. The two men and the other four men who had left behind, and the six returned, arriving May 7th. This information was obtained not from the Eskimo boys, but from the six who returned and from Francke, who was known to us in the summer of 1903, when the Roosevelt arrived at Etah. The information inserted here as supplementary to narrative of the two boys.)

or sleeping at the camp where the two Eskimos turned back, Dr. Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or northwesterly direction two sledges and twenty odd dogs. They did not enter this rough ice, but turned west- or southwestward a short dis- and returned to Heiberg Land point west of where they had left cache and where the four men had been back. They remained four or five days, and during that time I took a walk back to the cache and got a message which he had left there, and a message of supplies.

When asked why only a few supplies were taken from the cache, the boys claimed that only a small amount of supplies had been used in the few days since they left the cache, and that the sledges still had all they could carry, so that they could not take more. When being informed of the boys' statements thus far, Commander Peary asked a series of questions to be asked the boys in regard to this trip to the land out and back to it. The questions and answers were as follows:

Q. Did they cross many open leads or open water during this time? Ans. No.

Q. Did they make any caches out on the ice? Ans. No.

Q. Did they kill any bear or seal while on the ice north of Cape Thomas? Ans. No.

Q. Did they kill or lose any of their sledges while on the ice? Ans. No.

Q. How many sledges did they have? Ans. Two.

Q. How many dogs did they have? Ans. Not remember exactly, but some- times over twenty.

Q. How many sledges did they have when they got back to land? Ans. Yes: the sledges still had all they could carry, so they were able to take but a few things from the cache.

Q. Where here they then went southwest to the northwest coast of Heiberg Land to a point indicated on the map (Dr. Cook's Cape Northwest). Ans. Yes: here they went west across the ice, which was level and covered with snow, offering good going, to a point which they had seen from the shore of Heiberg Land at Cape Thomas. On this island they camped for one sleep.

Q. What was the position of this island, as given by the first boy, was criticized by the second boy as being too far to the west, the second boy calling the attention of the first to the fact that the position of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left the cache. The first boy then stated that the island was the south- west end of Heiberg Land, then down through Norwegian Bay, where they secured some bears, but not until after they had killed some of their dogs, to the east side of Graham Island; then eastward to the little bay marked "Eld's Fjord" on Sverdrup's chart; then southwest to Hell's Gate and Stimson's Peninsula.

INDIGESTION?

the channel between Amund Ringnes Land and Ellef Ringnes Land.

This criticism and correction was accepted by the first boy, who started to change the position of the island, but was stopped, as Commander Peary had given instructions that no changes or erasures were to be made in the route as drawn by the Eskimos on the chart.

From this island they could see two lands beyond (Sverdrup's Ellef Ringnes and Amund Ringnes Lands). From the island they journeyed toward the left hand one of these two lands (Amund Ringnes Land), passing a small island which they did not visit. Arriving at the shore of Amund Ringnes Land, the Eskimos killed a deer as indicated on the chart.

The above italicized portion of the statement of the Eskimo boys covers the period of time in which Dr. Cook claims to have gone to the Pole and back, and the entire time during which he could possibly have made any attempts to go to it.

The answers of the Eskimo boys to Commander Peary's series of independent questions, showing that they killed no game, made no caches, lost no dogs, and returned to the land with loaded sledges, makes their attainment of the Pole on the trip North of Cape Thomas Hubbard a physical and mathematical impossibility, as it would demand the subsistence of three men and over twenty dogs during a journey of ten hundred and forty geographical miles on less than two sledge loads of supplies.

If it is suggested that perhaps Dr. Cook got mixed and that he reached the Pole, or thought he did, between the time of leaving the northwest coast of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest, and his arrival at Ringnes Land, where they killed the deer, we must then add to the date of Dr. Cook's letter of March 17th, at or near Cape Thomas Hubbard, the subsequent four or five sleeps at that point, and the number of days required to march from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Northwest (a distance of some sixty nautical miles), which would advance his date of departure from the land to at least the 25th of March, and be prepared to accept the claim that Dr. Cook went from Cape Northwest (about latitude eighty and a half degrees North) to the Pole, a distance of five hundred and seventy geographical miles, in twenty-seven days.

After killing the deer, the Eskimos then traveled south along the east side of Ringnes Land to the point indicated on the chart, where they killed another deer, and then went east across the south-part of Crown Prince Gustav Sea to the south end of Heiberg Land, then down through Norwegian Bay, where they secured some bears, but not until after they had killed some of their dogs, to the east side of Graham Island; then eastward to the little bay marked "Eld's Fjord" on Sverdrup's chart; then southwest to Hell's Gate and Stimson's Peninsula.

Here for the first time during the entire journey, except as already noted off Cape Thomas H. Hubbard, they encountered open water. On this point the boys were clear, emphatic, and unshakable. They spent a good deal of time in this region, and finally abandoned their dogs and one sledge, took to their boat, crossed Hell's Gate to North Kent, up into Norfolk Inlet, then back along the north coast of Colin Archer Peninsula to Cape Vera, where they obtained fresh elder duck eggs. Here they cut the remaining sledge off, that is shortened it, as it was awkward to transport with the boat, and near here they killed a walrus.

The statement in regard to the fresh elder duck eggs permits the approximate determination of the date at this time as about the first of July. (This statement also serves, if indeed anything more than the inherent straightforwardness and detail of their narrative were needed, to substantiate the accuracy and truthfulness of the boys' statement. This locality of Cape Vera is mentioned in Sverdrup's narrative as the place where during his stay in that region he obtained elder ducks' eggs.)

From Cape Vera they went on down into the southwest angle of Jones Sound, where they killed a seal; thence east along the south coast of the Sound, killing three bears at the point noted on the map, to the peninsula known as Cape Sparbo on the map, about midway on the south side of Jones Sound. Here they killed some musk-oxen and, continuing east, killed four more at the place indicated on the chart, and were finally stopped by the pack ice at the mouth of Jones Sound. From here they turned back to Cape Sparbo, where they wintered and killed many musk-oxen.

After the sun returned in 1909 they started, pushing their sledge, across Jones Sound to Cape Tennyson; then along the coast to Clarence Head (passing inside of two small islands not shown on the chart, but drawn on it by the boys), where they killed a bear; thence across the broad blight in the coast to Cadogan Fjord; thence around Cape Isabella and up to Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor near Cape Sabine, where they found a seal cached for them by Peary's father. From here they crossed Smith Sound on the ice, arriving at Anorokok.

The Value of Good Digestion

Is easy to figure if you know what your stomach is worth. Kodol keeps the stomach at par value, by insuring good digestion. Kodol cures Dyspepsia.

Kodol insures good digestion by absolutely duplicating Nature's normal process, in perfectly digesting all food taken into the stomach.

While Kodol is doing this, the stomach is resting—and becoming strong and healthy. A strong and healthy stomach guarantees a sound and active brain.

The man with a sound stomach—a stomach that is doing for the body just what Nature intended it to do—is the man who is always prepared for any emergency. He is "there with the goods."

The man with a sick stomach, is a man sick all over. When the stomach is irritated by undigested food, the blood and heart are directly affected. Then dullness, unnatural sleepiness, sick-headaches, vertigo and fainting spells, and even serious brain trouble develop. Kodol will prevent these.

Spurring the stomach and brain to special effort by "tonics" and "stimulants" doesn't cure anything, or accomplish any good. Neither does dieting. Indigestion and the serious ailments which it induces can be averted and corrected only by natural means.

Kodol supplies this natural means. It performs the stomach's work for it—just as the stomach should perform it—while the stomach takes a little rest, "for the stomach's sake."

TELEPHONE TALKS

The Long Distance System

One of the most valuable features of our service, to our subscribers and to the public generally, is our connection with the extensive long distance lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the other associated Bell Telephone companies.

We own thousands of miles of long distance lines in the seven States in which we operate and in addition can connect any telephone in our system with lines extending to any other city in which a Bell Telephone system is operated.

These long distance lines are of the most modern and improved construction and are maintained at a high state of efficiency. The Bell systems, operating in various sections of the country, are uniform in their equipment and in their methods of operating.

Only by reason of this close traffic arrangement between the Bell Telephone companies is it possible to go to a Bell Telephone almost anywhere, ask for "Long Distance" and be put in communication with almost any point in the country.

This vast network of wires, radiating throughout the nation, is used daily in commerce and for social purposes by the banker, the farmer and citizens in all walks of life and our plant here is an important link in this great chain.

HURRICANE SPREAD WRECK IN PATHWAY

Key West Damaged To Extent $2,000,000---Martial Law Proclaimed to Protect People from Vandals.

KEY WEST, Oct. 12.—As a result of the hurricane which struck the southern coast of Florida Monday morning, Key West is a mass of wreckage and the damage to property estimated at $2,500,000. Martial law was proclaimed by the mayor and Key West Guards are patrolling the city.

The United States Government has been asked to despatch troops here without delay to assist in patrolling the storm-swept area.

Chaos reigns on every hand and few people remain in their homes, hundreds of which have either been totally wrecked or damaged. It is feared that many lives have been claimed along the coast.

It is known that many have received more or less serious injury and reports are current that several lives have been lost.

The storm reached its height at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when the wind reached an estimated velocity of 100 miles an hour. There was a hard, steady blow from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m., when the wind began to die down and by 4 o'clock the center of the hurricane had passed this point.

The hurricane is the worst that Key West has ever experienced.

Of 100 local vessels in the harbor Tuesday morning but five remain at anchor, the others having either gone to sea or been washed upon the beaches. The streets along the waterfront are a mass of wreckage.

Brick as well as frame buildings throughout the city suffered alike from the fury of the heavy wind and many miraculous escapes from death or serious injury have been reported.

Besides the several score of residences, either totally wrecked or blown from their pillars, nine factories were partially destroyed, including the Havana-American, Martinez, Nichols, Ruy Lopez, Manuel Lopez, Fleitas Torris, Cortez and Wolf cigar factories.

No. 1 and No. 3 engine houses of the fire department were destroyed, the firemen narrowly escaping, but several of the horses being killed. The top of the First National Bank was blown off, the postoffice damaged and two running gears of the Government coaling station were wrecked.

Every telephone and electric light pole on Duval street, the principal thoroughfare of the city, were blown down.

As soon as the wind had subdued plundering began. The city police force was unable to cope with the situation and the mayor decided to take stringent measures to suppress the looting, his proclamation of martial law resulting. Almost every nationality is represented among the city's population of more than 20,000, about one-half of whom are employed in the cigar manufactories, sponge fisheries and salvage companies.

MIAMI SUFFERS GREATLY.

Houses Unroofed and Branches Being Torn From Trees.

MIAMI, Oct. 12.—The hurricane struck this city about 10 o'clock Monday morning, and continued until about 5 o'clock, when the force of the wind began to lessen. The new March villa, which was under construction, is a complete wreck, the roof of the Masonic Temple was blown off and carried across Avenue D. It is reported that several dwellings in the city lost their roofs, and one or two buildings that were under construction were blown down. All day long the rain fell in torrents, flooding the streets and driving through walls and doing more or less damage to stocks of goods and office furniture. The tide in the river was the highest known for years, blocking the storm sewer so that the water had to run off on the surface. The greatest damage reported is the loss of the March villa. The building was of wood, one part being five and the other four stories high, and was all ready for the plasterers. Taken altogether, the storm was not as hard as the one three years ago.

East Coast Extension All Right.

In its latest summary of the damage wrought by the hurricane The Times-Union says:

"Recalling the damage that was done by the gale of 1906, feared was also entertained for the safety of the army of employes engaged in the construction of the extension of the Florida East Coast railway. However, those in charge of the men had been warned of the impending danger and due precaution had been taken. All the employes at Knights Key went to Marathon. The dredge boats, crews, lighters and craft used in the construction work were towed into the harbor at Midway and securely tied up. Late reports from the base of operation indicate that little or no damage was done either to employes or construction work."

"The storm caused three washouts just south of Hallandale, on the Florida East Coast railway. These, however, were soon repaired and traffic was resumed."

NOT A LIFE LOST.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Oct. 12.—Replying to rumors of great loss of life on the Florida East Coast railway as a result of the hurricane, Vice-President

WOMAN'S LEGS FOUND IN DRESS SUIT CASE

Were Wrapped In a New Bedford Newspaper of Last Sunday's Date.

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—The finding of severed legs of a woman in a dress suit case among some bushes in an outlying section of this town yesterday brought to light what the authorities are convinced is a case of murder. The discovery of a New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date with the portions of the limbs, is regarded as the most important clue thus far obtained, indicating possibly the place of the murder, if murder there was. The authorities last night were of the opinion that the woman was murdered in New Bedford, that the legs were placed in the suit case there and brought by team or automobile to Tiverton Sunday night. According to the medical examiner, Dr. John Stimson, the supposed murder was committed not more than twelve or fifteen hours before the suit case was discovered. That a murder was committed and that the cutting was not done by the experienced hands of a surgeon or by a medical student, is the belief of the medical examiner, who says that apparently a common hand-saw was used to sever the legs from the trunk. A search for the other portions of the body in the woods nearby is being made.

The body might have lain undiscovered for days had not a rural letter carrier, George Potter, chanced to go to the spot yesterday afternoon. Potter was making his rounds, passing along the road, when he noticed three portions of human legs partly wrapped in newspaper in the case. Later investigation by the medical examiner showed that the suit case contained the upper portion of a right leg, that from the thigh to the knee, and the entire left leg cut in two pieces at the knee. The medical examiner, after taking measurements of the limbs, estimated that the woman (or girl) was probably five feet three inches high and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous spot on the bottom of the foot indicated that the girl was accustomed to walking much or to standing, and suggested that she may have been a working girl.

Clay County Voted Dry in Election Held Tuesday

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Oct. 13.—The wet or dry election here yesterday was very exciting all day. Green Cove Springs precinct gives 45 dry majority. The six precincts thus far heard from increase the dry majority to about 100 and the indications are that the drys will be victorious in the county by about 150 majority.

The downstairs rooms of the court house were used by the ladies as their headquarters and song-singing and praying was the order of the day.

They served a nice dinner to all who would accept. As each voter entered the children yelled "What's the matter with John Smith? He's all right. Who is all right? John Smith."

Then they sang a song as the voter toddled up-stairs to the sound of the organ, etc. There was a full vote cast.

The high school closed for the day.

so as to allow parents wanting their children at the polls to have them there as individuals and not as representatives of the school.

Superintendent Biggs refused to allow the W. C. T. U. to organize the high school into a temperance society as a unit. The ladies refused any compromise, such as taking those whose parents were willing to another building. The superintendent stood his ground and will refer the matter to the board of education.

Two years ago an angry parent took his school children from the court house where they were helping sing temperance songs, and was removed as a subdistrict trustee by the board. The attitude of the school this time has been one of armed neutrality.

Blazing With Gasoline Big Roller Runs Amuck

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12.—Getting beyond the control of the driver, and blazing with gasoline, a monster road roller weighing 5,000 pounds, dashed two blocks down a popular thoroughfare yesterday and crashed into a building used as a soft drink stand by Sam Strauss.

Strauss, who was inside the place, was knocked down and badly hurt. James Deas, a carpenter who was standing in the door of the drinking place, was knocked down and hurt internally.

The fruit stand of S. Cohen, with a stock of furniture to the value of almost $1,000, was demolished.

The machine stopped about half way the length of the store, where its weight slowly sank it through the planks of the floor and where it stood for some hours after, with the rear high up in the air. Engineer Horn, who was in charge of the roller, held to his place while it raced down the long Lawrence street hill for two blocks, and jumped just in time to escape going into the building with it. The escaping gasoline, with which it is operated, was afire and he ran the last block in a veritable blaze of the burning oil.

J. P. Beckwith gave to the Associated Press last night the following statement:

"Positively not a life was lost in the recent storm. Very little damage was done to the right-of-way or work on the extension. Our line will be opened for traffic within forty-eight hours to Knights Key.

"Warning by weather bureau enabled us to fully protect all equipment and employes."

Armed Citizens Search for 18-Year-Old Desperado

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 12.—Scores of armed citizens were searching Monday night for Earl Bullock, an 18-year-old desperado, who Monday robbed the State Bank at Eudora and later fatally wounded Policeman James Pringle, who attempted to arrest him at his mother's home here. Bullock was arrested in Eudora by Sheriff E. W. Woods on a charge of robbing a store.

the deputy took the boy with him.

While Woods and Wilson were talking Bullock drew two revolvers and ordered them to throw up their hands. Then he marched them into a vault and locked the door. Snatching $1,000 he fled. Two hours later citizens released the two men from the vault and a search for Bullock was started. Policeman Pringle traced the boy to his mother's home and went there to capture him. Bullock shot down the policeman and made a successful dash for liberty.

14,385 PENSIONERS OF UNCLE SAM OVER 80

Mrs. Sparkman of Florida Leads the List With 112 Years to Her Credit.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—There is an old saying that nothing prolongs longevity like a pension.

Upon the Government records three of our pensioners are over one hundred, 256 are in the nineties and 14,385 are in their eighties.

Our centenarian pensioner claiming the greatest age is Mrs. Phoebe E. Sparkman of Fairfield, Fla. In a sworn petition accompanying a special bill in Congress which in January, 1907, increased her pension to $12 per month, she set forth that she was then 110 years old, which would make her 112 this year. She is pensioned as a soldier's widow, her husband, Henry Sparkman, having served in the Florida Indian war of 1839-40, as private in Captain Oliver's company, First Regiment, Florida Mounted Militia. In a dictated statement which Mrs. Sparkman made some time ago she says:

"I was brought by my parents to this State (Florida) when I was eight years old from Georgia, and settled in what is now known as Gainesville, in Alachua county, Fla. Of course it was a wild country at that time. Indians were all around us.

"We lived in camps made of palmetto blades and pine tops, same as Indians. I was married at the age of twenty-five, on the site above stated. At the uprising of the Indians my husband was mustered into the service and served through the war. We still lived at Gainesville when the war was over and raised a family of five children. My husband died in Gainesville, and I with my family moved to Hernando county, in South Florida, the day after my husband was buried."

Healthy at Near 111.

Our next oldest pensioner, according to his claim, is Henry Dorman, of Liberal, Mo., who served in the Civil War in Company F, Seventh Michigan Cavalry. In a pension application made early in 1907 he stated that he was born January 10, 1799, which would make him almost a year old when George Washington died, and 110 years and 8 months old at the present time. Although he does not boast, with Mrs. Sparkman, of having lived under the administration of every President of the United States, he claims to have been contemporary with every man who has held that office. According to his statement of his age, he was 62 at the time of the outbreak of the Civil War, in which he fought.

Claims 108 Years.

The third pensioner claiming to be a centenarian is Micajah Wise of Beaver Brook, N. Y., who says he is 108 years of age. He served in Company G, One Hundred and Forty-first Pennsylvania Infantry. In June of this year he was reported to be " hale and hearty."

A fourth centenarian veteran of our wars—who is not, strictly speaking, a pensioner, but a sailor on the retired list of the regular navy—is William Macabee, who has just celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary at the United States Naval Home, Philadelphia.

delphia. His records show that he was born in Baltimore, Sept. 22, 1808, which was in the first administration of Thomas Jefferson.

The last remaining veterans of all four wars have passed the century mark. Daniel F. Bakeman, the final survivor of the Revolutionary War, died at Freedom, Cattaraugus county, N. Y., April 5, 1909, aged 109 years, 6 months and 8 days, and Hiram Crook of Ava, N. Y., the last surviving pensioned soldier of the War of 1812, was 105 years and 16 days old when finally mustered out by the Great Commander on May 13, 1905.

Saw Our Four Great Wars.

Bakeman, who is remembered by many men still young today, was born back in 1759, when we were still content with the yoke of England. He was a lad of seventeen when independence was declared and when the Liberty Bell proclaimed the freedom of the land. When the War of 1812 broke out he was a middle-aged man of fifty-three, considered too old for active service, and when the Mexican War was fought he was an aged man of eighty-seven, looked upon by his neighbors as ready for the grave. Yet he lived twenty-two years more, and upon his hundredth birthday the Civil War had not yet come. When its first guns were heard he was 102, and no one dreamed that he would see its end. But still he fought the last foe as tenaciously as, under the command of Washington, he had battled against the first enemy, and when Lee surrendered he was nearing 106.

Crook also saw four of our wars begun and ended. Having been born in 1800, he was only fourteen when he finished his service in the second struggle with Britain. He was forty-six at the time of the Mexican War, sixty-one when Sumter was fired on, and ninety-eight when Dewey ran the gauntlet of Manila Bay.

Two Real Daughters of Revolution.

Our most interesting class of pensioners now alive, if we exclude the centenarians already described, are our two remaining daughters of Revolutionary soldiers, whom Congress has pensioned by special act. These are Mrs. Phoebe M. Wooley Palmer of Brookfield, N. Y., and Mrs. Sarah C. Hurlbutt of Little Marsh, Pa.

The other surviving real daughter of the Revolution, Mrs. Hurlbutt, is ninety-one, and lives with her son, P. G. Hurlbutt. She is the daughter of Elijah Weeks, who served in a Massachusetts company during the great struggle for independence. These two old ladies are our nearest connecting links with the great event in which our republic was conceived, and it should pay them homage as long as they live.

The woman who linked the thrilling days of 1776 with our present decade of airships and automobiles was Mrs. Esther Sumner Damon, a first cousin of former United States Senator Charles Sumner. During the last years of her life she subsisted on a pension of $12 per month allowed her by Congress, but a year before her death this was doubled.

About 400 widows of the War of 1812 are now living.

RAMSEY IS AFTER THE WEST END TIGERS

MADE SPECIAL TRIP SATURDAY NIGHT TO THEIR PLACES.

Secured a Number of Guns, Some Booze and Scared Them From Doing Business.

Sheriff Ramsey, in company with a number of deputies, took in certain sections in the western part of the county on Saturday night in an endeavor to "run down" a number of the supposedly bling tigers that are said to exist in that section.

For several weeks reports have been coming to the sheriff that any number of "tigers" were in full running order, and that untold of gambling, fights and the like were in progress each Saturday and Sunday in the section visited.

While they found the booze, they could not find anyone that claimed it, and as a consequence could make no arrests, but they also found a number of pistols which were thrown away, after they had invaded the territory, but only succeeded in making two arrests.

It seems that all of the places being closely connected it was an easy matter for them to spread the news upon the arrival of the officers and notify all, so they could not be caught up with in their disregard of the law.

A number of "skin" games were disturbed and gambling houses raided, but the inmates made good their escape before the arrival of the officers on the scene.

There has been so much trouble in Jonesville, Tloga and the camps in that section that the sheriff will take extra precaution in the future and see if the same cannot be stopped.

LETTER TO L. M. McCORMICK, Gainesville, Florida.

Dear Sir: Here's the one great big fact in paint:

Every job painted Devco takes less gallons than any other paint.

If any one doubts this statement, here's the proof:

He may paint half his job Devco, the other half whatever paint he likes. If the Devco half does not take less gallons and cost less money for both paint and labor, no pay.

Yours truly,

Arrested for Concealed Weapons.

From Tuesday's Daily Sun:

Sheriff Ramsey and Deputy Bruton arrested two negroes on Saturday night charged with carrying concealed weapons. They found the pistols upon them and they are now confined in jail to await a preliminary hearing which will be had before Judge Mason. James and John Long were their names and they come from Jonesville.

PATE SIMS AND HIS "PAL" ARE UP AGAIN

GIVEN SIX MONTHS BY JUDGE BEXLEY ON MONDAY.

Boys Were Warned to Steer Clear of That City, for They Were Not Wanted.

Pate Sims and Oscar Kelley, two youths from the city of High Springs, were brought here again Monday to be sent up for six months to the "pen," this time the charge being riding on a freight train.

These two young fellows have figured very conspicuously in the courts of High Springs for the past few years, and only a short while since they were sent up from that place on a vagrancy charge, the time having expired on Saturday last.

At the time these boys were sent from that place they were warned not to ever enter that city again, or they would be similarly dealt with, but regardless of what was told them, they showed in on Sunday to be sent out Monday with the bracelets attached.

City Marshal McGriff saw the pair and quickly placed them under arrest, turning them over to Justice Bexley on Monday morning, when they were given the above sentence. The boys claim that it is a conspiracy on the part of certain ones to imprison them, but on the other hand the officers state that they do not have to contend with many little petty occurrences when they are absent from the city, and that the two, with others, are a hindrance and general nuisance, and that they cannot live in High Springs.

EDDINS—BLESSING.

Married on Wednesday Evening of Last Week in Baltimore.

A wedding that will prove of much interest to Gainesville people was celebrated on last Wednesday evening in Baltimore, when Mr. W. Eddins and Miss Helen Blessing were married. The Baltimore American has the following to say of the event:

Miss Helen Virginia Blessing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Blessing, was married Wednesday evening 8:30 to Mr. William R. Eddins of Gainesville, Fla. The ceremony was performed in Franklin Street Methodist Episcopal church by the Rev. David M. Rider. The bride, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Charles T. Hall, who acted as matron of honor, entered the church to the strains of a wedding march from "Lohengrin," led by Prof. Harry A. Canoles, and were met at the chancel rail by the groom and his brother, Mr. Albert Eddins of New York City, who acted as best man. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white, chiffon velvet, trimmed with pearls and satin, and carried a magnificent shower bouquet of bride roses. The matron of honor wore white crepe de chine, trimmed with duchess lace, and carried a bouquet of France roses. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. J. Christliff, 839 West avenue, after which the bridal party left for a short trip North. On their return they will leave for Gainesville, Fla., where they will make their future home. Mr. Eddins is a member of the firm of the Eddins Manufacturing Company at Gainesville, and is prominent in the social life of that locality, while the bride has many friends in this city and in Alachua county. They received many beautiful and costly presents.

HON. W. K. ZEWDADSKI.

Returns to His Native State After Absence of Three Years. (Springfield (Ill.) Register.)

Hon. W. K. Zewadski leaves tomorrow with his wife and youngest son, Olaf Zewadski, for Ocala, Fla., where they will make their future home and from whence they came to Springfield in July, 1906. Mr. Zewadski has three other sons, W. K., Jr., who completes his study of law at the University of Michigan this term; Clarence, who is also attending the University of Michigan and who was for two years a carrier boy for The State Register, and Guy Zewadski, who is private secretary to Assistant General Freight Agent W. H. Wiley of the Wabash, with headquarters in St. Louis.

Springfield and the State of Illinois lose a valued citizen in the departure of Mr. Zewadski from this city. He is a man of sincerity, earnestness, ability and power. During the three years of residence in Springfield he has taken an active part in the political and church life of the community. He was a member of the First M. E. church. In politics he was a Democrat. He loved the fundamental principle of democracy—the advancement of the moral and material welfare of the people. He entered into political combats with a vigor and enthusiasm which won him a place in the councils of the party as well as a place in the hearts of his many friends and associates. During his stay here he has practiced law successfully. Last spring he was honored with the Democratic nomination for city attorney. In Florida he was elected to the Legislature three consecutive terms, and was recognized as a statesman of exceptional ability. His friends there are awaiting his return with much joy while Springfield feels keen regret that he is to leave here, but they wish him Godspeed, and, while regretting his departure, are pleased that he was with us so long. He regained his health while here. It was for that purpose he came. He will, of course, be a great "booster" for Springfield, not only as a beautiful place to work and to live, but as a health resort. And while he is saying nice things about Springfield down in Florida, he may rest assured Springfield will be "handing him bouquets" up here which will even outrival the blossoms of the Sunny South.

Imperfect Digestion

Means less nutrition and in consequence less vitality. When the liver fails to secrete bile, the blood becomes loaded with bilious properties, the digestion becomes impaired and the bowels constipated. Herbine will rectify this; it gives tone to the stomach, liver and kidneys, strengthens the appetite, clears the complexion, improves the complexion, infuses new life and vigor to the whole system. 50 cents a bottle. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

NOTICE.

Bids will be received at the next regular meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, the same being the second day of November, 1909, for the building of a steel bridge between Alachua and Columbia counties across Santa Fe river. Plans of said bridge are on file in the Clerk's office at Gainesville and Lake City. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. G. DAMPIER, Chn. Attest: S. H. WIENGES.

TIMES' CAR ARRIVED HERE MONDAY MORNING

NOW EN ROUTE HOME ON THE RETURNING TRIP.

Car of "E. M. F." Pattern and Stands the Test Most Admirably of Florida Roads.

From Tuesday's Daily Sun:

The Tampa Times pathfinding car reached Gainesville on the returning trip on Monday morning at 8:15, after a pleasant short ride from Starke, where they spent the night, their first stop after leaving Jacksonville.

The machine was in charge of L. D. Ragin of The Tampa Times, with C. S. Washington of the Tampa Automobile Club, B. M. Reed and T. N. Henderson, the machine being one of the "E. M. F." cars, and up to the arrival here had stood the trip without any mishaps or the slightest of adjustments.

They left The Daily Times' office in Tampa on Thursday, October 7th, at 10:55 a. m., and traveled along on the eastern coast until they reached the State's metropolis, which was made on Saturday afternoon at 4:20—being a distance of 309 4-10 miles covered by the machine. No attempt was made by the car for time on the entire trip, but simply an outline of an overland route to be hereafter established between these places, and which would very materially help all of the cities along the line.

The party left Jacksonville on the returning trip on Saturday morning at 11:30, traveling slow until they reached Starke, where they secured quarters for the night.

As above stated, the trip is being made for the purpose of fixing the best route for an endurance run from Tampa to Jacksonville sometime during November under the auspices of the American Automobile Association, and this alone will create considerable excitement throughout the State and along the lines of the proposed route, the route to be determined after the party return to Tampa.

While the East Coast route will probably contain certain points in its favor, it is more than probable that a strong effort will be made to have it reach many sections of the interior. This route will be found to be a little the longest, but it is almost certain that along the central section, which would include Gainesville, Ocala, Leesburg, and so on down the line, much valuable hard road would be found in their favor.

SPITTING NUISANCE.

Hawking and Spitting Is Caused by Catarrh Germs.

If the local authorities want to stop the disgusting habit of spitting mucus on the sidewalks, they had better instruct the people as to the best method of killing the catarrh germs and curing catarrh.

You can easily tell by reading the symptoms below whether you have catarrh or not:

Offensive breath, frequent sneezing, discharge from nose, stoppage of the nose, huskiness of voice, tickling in throat, droppings in throat, a cough, pain in chest, loss of strength, variable appetite, spasms of coughing, low spirited at times, raising of mucus, difficulty in breathing, loss of vital force.

J. W. McCollum & Co. have a sensible remedy (money back if it fails) for catarrh, called Hyomel, which is a vaporized air so antiseptic that when it is breathed over the inflamed and germ-infested membrane, it kills all germ life and cures catarrh.

The price, including hard rubber inhaler, is only $1.00, and money back if it doesn't cure. Extra bottles, 50 cents.

"I have tried almost every catarrh cure on the market without benefit. Have been using Hyomel for one week and feel like a new man already."—Wm. V. Goode, Newark, Ohio, June 21, 1909.

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Molden, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

BONNIE MELROSE.

MELROSE, Oct. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Yearwood left Tuesday for Atlanta. Miss Belle Hall of Orange Heights was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Craig for several days last week.

W. H. Biggs, superintendent of schools for Clay county, was in town Thursday on school business. The enrollment is now up to 75 scholars and another teacher, Miss Zella Dougherty of Lake City, will assist the Misses L. and E. Mack from Monday on.

Miss Mae Barnett returned Wednesday from a very pleasant visit with friends at Jacksonville.

Rev. C. B. Hedrick has resumed the services at Trinity church, which have been carried all through the summer by Mr. A. C. Currie.

The revival meetings at the Methodist church have been attended by large congregations during the week. The cemetery cleaning on Saturday was successfully carried out by the many cheerful workers present.

Putnam county will abandon the poor farm system of caring for indigent persons.

It is to be hoped that Bryan's daughter will not be compelled to run for Congress as long as her father did for President.

Chicago man killed his wife and himself, rather than work—so he said. Still, it may have been rather than stay in Chicago.

The reason why some people do not make a success of business is because they pay more attention to that of others than of their own.

A judge has enjoined a woman from worrying her husband at his business by calling him over the telephone. That judge should go higher, says The Atlanta Constitution, for he has discovered an injunction which should be extended.

Sheriff Van Pelt of Escambia county will again attempt to Puritanize the poor people of Pensacola by enforcing the Sunday blue laws. In such a cosmopolitan city as Pensacola such laws are bound to fail of enforcement, for the reason that public sentiment is opposed to them.

The Jacksonville Floridian remarks that "Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt is not helping her distinguished father very much in persisting in her candidacy for Congress from her district in Colorado. She has only recently been divorced from her husband, and modesty would demand just a little more seclusion."

One man devotes his spare moments to improving his mind that he may secure a better position, another man uses his spare moments in teaching a dog tricks. Ultimately both men gain their end, but the difference between them is that one has made a success of himself while the other has made a success of his dog.

The declaration by the Maine law court, the highest tribunal in that State, that the ordinance excluding automobiles from the streets of Bar Harbor is constitutional, finally disposes of this much-discussed question, and Bar Harbor takes its reasonably safe position as a refuge from the chug and odor of gasoline vehicles.

By making a preliminary tour of the State at this time Hon. W. A. Blount, candidate for the U. S. Senate, is demonstrating to the other candidates that he knows a thing or two about politics. By the time the campaign opens Col. Blount will have the advantage of his opponents by having an organization in every county in the State. Keep your eye on Blount, for he will have to be reckoned with in the approaching campaign.

Adjutant John C. McGrew, of Stonewall Camp, U. C. V., has received a letter from the president of the Old Confederate Home at Jacksonville in which the latter says the Home is now so crowded that they cannot admit any new applicants until the new annex has been completed. He appeals to Adjutant McGrew to urge upon the Daughters of the Confederacy of this city and Stonewall Camp to assist in raising funds to furnish the new annex.

GENERAL FRED GRANT.

General Fred Dent Grant's appearance in full army regalia at the head of a prohibition parade in Chicago has roused the wrath of some citizens of the Windy City, who object to the army butting into politics and interfering with the tastes and thirsts of the people. Chicago should not take General Fred D. Grant too seriously. He is U. S. Grant's son, not U. S. Grant; paternal talent sometimes breaks out into the son, but Fred D. escaped; no river is in danger of conflagration from him. He looks well in uniform and is probably as impressive as any of the funny freaks who were "generalized" by the McKinley regime—Wood, Funston, Guild, Chaffter, et al., for he was made a general for his father's sake, not for anything he ever did himself. He was not a success at West Point; he came near being expelled for hazing a negro cadet; his service in the regular army was grief and not glorious; it was on a general's personal staff and not with his regiment and colors; and his most important and sagacious achievement was his marriage of a rich girl. Chicago should smooth its ruffled plumage; Gen. Fred looks fine in a street parade; he has a talent for it; a major-general on a water wagon is sufficiently novel to tickle the crowd in the street. Time was when certain saints and critics complained of General Grant's tastes to Lincoln, and accused him of drinking whiskey. The kindly and whimsical Lincoln said he wished he knew the brand of whiskey Grant drank, so that he could send some of it to his other generals. We trust Grant, Gen. Fred, knows the brand, so that when real war comes he may be able to help out in days of trouble. A general in Chicago hasn't much to do outside of decorating ball rooms and glorifying 4 o'clock teas; and when a peaceful soldier has a lot of feathers, clothes and implements of war to exhibit and air, why isn't a prohibition parade just as good as any other medium? Let us be reasonable and take Grant for granted.

HON. W. A. BLOUNT.

Hon. W. A. Blount, candidate for United States Senator, was in DeFuniak the first of the week, attending court. Mr. Blount, in the course of a short interview, talked breezily with The Herald man on various topics, including his candidacy. Our personal acquaintance with the distinguished gentleman had heretofore been only such as might be picked up in a purely business way, and while we have always admired Mr. Blount, we don't really consider that we ever met the MAN until this week. Our newspaper experience of something like twenty-five years stands us in good stead when it comes to "sizing up" a man, and we pride ourselves of being able to talk with a man for five minutes and then drawing a pretty correct idea of what he had for dinner last Friday was a week ago. Mr. Blount exactly fills our bushel measure. Not thirty-two quarts, mostly chaff and a few cobs, for "good measure," but a whole bushel, "heaped up and running over," of good, solid, broad-minded, big-hearted, American citizen. It is no disparagement of other good men in the race to say that some of them are going to wish Mr. Blount was in "galley-wack" before this thing is over.—DeFuniak Springs Herald.

The fact that the Illinois Legislature has dictated that the humane treatment of animals shall be taught in the common schools, is recognition of a need which should not exist, but certainly is indicated. It is the unfortunate fact that humane treatment of animals is not an universal possession of young humanity. The Illinois law provides that one-half hour each week shall be devoted to teaching "kindness and justice to and humane treatment and protection of birds and other animals and the important part they fulfill in the economy of nature." A curious provision, however, is that of a penalty for any teacher's neglect to give the instruction—withholding five per cent of the teacher's monthly salary.

R. P. Sears, of the mail order firm of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, has retired from business after 25 years' activity. He piled up net profits of $25,000,000—about a million dollars a year, it is said. How much did you contribute?

SCHOOLS AND LAND VALUES.

Probably in every community which votes local tax for schools, land values in a very few years advance to double the amount of school-tax money voted, says The Progressive Farmer. And this is but one of a hundred ways in which better schools pay for themselves many times over. The whole life of the community is richer and finer wherever there is a good school at its center; the citizens feel a pride in it such as they never felt before, and everything in the neighborhood begins to catch step with the new standard of progress thus set up. It is not the fertility of the land that makes it valuable; it is the intelligence of the community in which it is situated. Land in Africa today is more fertile than the average Southern farmer of the uplands ever saw, but it is practically worthless because of an ignorant population, while land in Belgium, originally little more than a sand-waste, has become intensely valuable by reason of the presence of an intelligent population, and intensely fertile by reason of the wise methods of cultivation practiced by these intelligent farmers. Even if a man has no boy or girl to send, the school tax investment is a good one for any property-holder because of the increase in values that always results from the presence of an intelligent citizenship.

OKLAHOMA'S DRASTIC LAWS.

Oklahoma's laws, like her constitution, are full of experimental features, and both are coming more or less into collision with the Federal courts. As is well known, the State has undertaken to carry out a drastic plan of conserving her natural gas, a product in which she is particularly rich. By indirection her laws have been so framed that it could not be piped out of the State. While a direct inhibition was not attempted, a section was incorporated in the constitution denying to any corporation the right of eminent domain, or the use of the highways, unless it would first take out a domestic charter, after which it was reasoned, the State could lay such restrictions as it saw fit. Here was a clever conservation scheme of its own, and one perhaps that would have attained its purpose had there been no United States courts to reckon with.

There has naturally been considerable resistance to this arbitrary regulation. In incidental rulings the courts have made it plain that they were not prepared to uphold the State in restricting the sale of gas within her own borders. More directly to the point is the intelligence that Judge Campbell of the Eastern District Federal Court will put into effect a far-reaching temporary injunction that prohibits State officers from interfering with the companies to pipe gas into other States. The product is held to be one of interstate commerce, as much as corn, wheat or coal, and Oklahoma has no more right to exclude the rest of the world from its benefits than in the case of any other staple. It was an attempt to establish an imperium in perio, to claim for itself the exclusive benefit of privileges with which nature had endowed it.

If the Hon. Ion L. Farris of Jacksonville receives no more encouragement from the voters than he has from the press in his race for Congress against Hon. Frank Clark, he will not get as many votes as it will cost him dollars to have his name printed on the ticket. Aside from the Ocala papers, whose editors have no vote in this district, Mr. Farris has not received favorable mention from a newspaper in the State—so far as we have seen. Judge Farris stood high with the people of Duval county until he made such a spectacle of himself on the Jacksonville charter bill in the last Legislature, but since then the members of both factions in Duval county have "dropped him like a hot potato."

"THIN-SKINNED" FELLOWS.

There are a number of men in the public service of the nation, State, county and city, who come under the newspaper classification of "thin-skinned fellows," and the paper that prints all the news all the time is continually coming in contact with these fellows.

The "thin-skinned fellow" is the one who believes that no newspaper has a right to print his name in connection with anything he does in the capacity of a public servant unless he authorizes it done. We are continually meeting the fellow who says, "I didn't authorize" such and such a thing to be printed.

It is really unfortunate that more people do not understand the mission of the newspaper, and some of the trials of the men who make the paper possible.

If the "thin-skinned fellow" in public life does not want his "name in the paper," he can keep it out by retiring to private life and behaving himself, meaning of course that he must also keep out of the courts.

The newspapers have no desire to injure anyone, and whenever a public servant is misquoted the offending newspaper is always ready and willing to correct the error. Man is only mortal, and newspaper men make mistakes just like other kinds or classes of people. There is no reason to censure the newspaper man for making mistakes any more than the lawyer, or doctor, or a dentist, or minister. The newspaper man necessarily does his work in a hurry, and, if anything, is more liable, and hence more excusable, for his mistakes than other people, and yet he always gets the worst blame.

If the people generally, and the public servants in particular, better understood the work of the newspaper man there would be more of appreciation and less of censure for him.—Pensacola News.

Samuel Shaw of Hawthorn has entered The Sun's Corn Contest with six ears of corn, which originated in Madison county, Fla., and has been improved for twenty-five years. He says this corn never fails to make a good crop, no matter what the conditions. He made this year 450 bushels on 25 acres without any fertilizer, an average of 18 bushels to the acre, but one exceptional acre produced 30 bushels. Mr. Shaw also has seven tons of as fine pea vine hay as was ever grown, which was grown on seven acres, 12 acres of pinders, and 35 head of hogs which will net 125 pounds of pork each. He came to Alachua county from Madison last December, and says there is no excuse for farmers to buy feed and bacon, as he has produced all the above on a two-horse farm.

THE SUN'S CORN CONTEST.

With a view to showing what can be done in Alachua county in the way of producing corn, The Sun offers the following cash prizes for the best corn brought into the office before October 15th, 1909:

Best stalk of corn, showing two or more well-developed ears... $3.00
Second best stalk of corn..... 1.00
Best ear of corn..... 2.00
Second best ear of corn..... 1.00

The corn entered must be grown in Alachua county; must be delivered to The Sun office, all charges paid, before October 15th, and be accompanied by the grower's name, address, number of acres grown, average yield per acre, variety, and a short description of the method of cultivation.

The exhibits will be placed in some public place and left on exhibit for a few days at the close of the contest.

The awards will be made by competent farmers, who have not entered any corn in the contest.

The object in offering these prizes is to stimulate our farmers to better things in the way of crops for home use and to ship.

...CANE GRINDING...

By C. K. McQuarrie, Florida Agri. Experiment Station
Press Bulletin No. 125

When a farmer has been at the expense and trouble of raising a crop of sugar-cane, he wants to get the most out of it he possibly can, and to that end he must have the best appliances he can get for the purpose.

The Cane Mill

The first consideration is the mill. It should be of the most approved type, and capable of getting at least 75 per cent. of the juice from the cane. There are several excellent makes on the market, from a light one-horse mill up. The size should be decided by the amount of cane to grind, but never pays to get a small mill. The three-roller vertical type gives the best satisfaction.

The location of the mill should be arranged high enough above the position of the evaporator to enable the juice to be run by gravity in a pipe from the straining tub to the evaporator. This saves time, and gives a constant supply of juice ready for the evaporator.

The Foundation of the Mill

The mill must be set on a solid foundation, and this foundation braced in such a way that it will be impossible for the mill to move from position while at work. The best foundation, under ordinary conditions in this State, consists of lightwood posts, not less than fourteen inches in diameter and ten feet long, set in the ground at least five feet deep. The proper setting of these posts is quite important. Holes must be dug for every individual post with a slant towards the center, so that when the mill is set on top of them it will be on a level. Therefore all the holes must be dug to the same depth, with a post-hole digger if possible. We want as small a hole as will take the post, for the smaller the hole the better able we will be to make a solid job of the necessary tamping after the post is in place. Setting these posts so as to get them perfectly solid, sand or soil must be tamped all around each individual post, and plenty of water poured on during the tamping process to help make them solid in their places, so that none of them will move when grinding begins. Then brace them thoroughly from the inside with 2 by 4 scantling material.

Setting the Mill in Position

In setting the mill in position on top of these posts, a good plan is to use a couple of pieces of 2 by 6 inch, about 3 feet long, to the base of the mill, and then bolt these pieces to the top of the posts, either by lag screws or set-in bolts. This makes it easier to level up the mill, and helps the solidity of the whole.

If the posts are ten feet long, and are set five feet in the ground, a space of five feet is available for the juice tub and the necessary straining appliances.

Straining the Juice

The first step towards getting a high-grade syrup is the clean and thorough straining of the juice as it leaves the mill spout. A tub made from the half of a syrup barrel answers well for the strainer. A hole should be bored in the side of the tub large enough to admit the end of the juice pipe, and the junction should be made tight so as not to leak. The tub should be placed on a platform to get it up close to the mill spout. A piece of fine wire-cloth should be tacked over the hole at the end of the tub, to act as a strainer. This should be fitted on so that it can easily be taken off for cleaning, which will often be necessary. If "black" cane be had in quantity, an excellent juice filter can be made by tacking the tub with it; but it must be renewed several times daily. It can be used over again if it is washed and dried, and then the dust shaken from it. On top of the tub and held in place by a wire hoop, a double thickness of cheese cloth should be used. This will also require to be renewed. On top of all a piece, about 18 inches square, of ordinary window wire netting should be laid, to catch the rougher parts as the juice runs from the mill spout.

This gives us three strainings and a filtering, which should make the juice clean enough for evaporating.

Lines With Conductor; Sues Pullman Company

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 13.—Because of alleged negligence on the part of the Pullman Car Company forced her to leave at one of the South's best lines in company with a handsome conductor, Miss Conyers, a trained nurse, of this city, only sued the car company, but awarded damages in the sum of $125.

Her petition for damages Miss Conyers did not allege that the conductor at Savannah's most noted hotel was not all that she could have wished, she failed to allege that the conductor was not the soul of thoughtfulness and politeness, she didn't claim that everything didn't go as it should.

She did set up, though, that she was embarrassed.

last. To her consternation, she was told that Americus was now far in the rear and the train was speeding toward Savannah at a 50-mile clip. The conductor was solicitous in the extreme and suggested that Miss Pritchett make the trip through to Savannah and return on the next train.

At this point Miss Pritchett's embarrassment began to make itself felt. She did not have with her sufficient money to pay for the return passage from Savannah and her accommodations while in the city. Her embarrassment increased as she frankly told the conductor of her predicament. Later, after considerable pressure on the part of the conductor, she agreed that he should lend her funds sufficient for her needs.

On returning to Americus the following day, however, Miss Pritchett found that another nurse had been employed in her place, and she was forced to return to Atlanta without the $60 she had expected to receive for her services.

In her petition for damages Miss Pritchett set out that she should be repaid her railroad fare, the $60 which she would have earned and something for her embarrassment. As her railroad fare was in the neighborhood of $15, the jury decided that she had been embarrassed $125 worth.

night and until it was repaired on Wednesday. It attracted the attention of all passers and at first it was thought that someone must have made an "attempt" upon the bank.

WILL STROBLE HEID ON SERIOUS CHARGE

JUDGE MASON BOUND HIM OVER
TO CIRCUIT COURT.

Came Near Killing Another Negro by Cutting Him to Pieces Two Weeks Ago.

Will Stroble, the negro who seriously cut another negro by the name of Chas. Gist about twelve days since, was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Mason Wednesday afternoon and bound over to await the action of the circuit court.

Stroble was held in the sum of $5,000, and while the charge against the negro was a most serious one, Judge Mason made it light to see if he could not give the bond. He is charged in the warrant with assault with intent to kill, and had it not been for the best of attention at the hands of the doctors, he would have probably done the latter, for Gist was badly cut to pieces.

While Gist is able to be up and attend court, he is yet unable to walk and has to be carried about in a vehicle, which shows that his wounds are of a serious nature.

Stroble is considered one of the bad negro characters of the city and has on numerous occasions showed that he was not of the ordinary humble kind, but his last attempt at slashing will very likely prove a lesson to him that he will not soon forget.

STRINGFELLOW HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

BUILDING FLOODED WITH WATER, WHICH WAS GREATER.

Two Alarms Sent in at Same Time
From Different Boxes for
This Blaze.

The handsome home of J. D. Stringfellow, corner of Arredondo and West Liberty streets, was badly damaged by water early Wednesday morning and suffered a loss of about $100 by fire.

When first discovered an alarm was turned in from Box 52, also another alarm from Box 25, and this caused the department a few minutes' delay.

A greater part of the roof was torn and cut away in order to get to the flames, which had spread on the inside of the roof by falling through, and it was necessary to pursue this course after it had gained such headway, although apparently a great amount of unnecessary water was used in extinguishing the flames.

Good and effective work was done by the firemen who were present after they reached the building, for it was only a short while before the fire was extinguished, but the damage by water to the building is estimated at about $500, while the furniture also suffered to some extent.

It is thought that the blaze caught from a spark from the chimney, as when first seen only a very small spot on the roof was burning.

WILCOX ITEMS.

WILCOX, Oct. 12.—A number of our young people spent Sunday lunch riding on the famous old Suwannee river. Capt. J. H. Sheffield is always ready when at leisure to engineer the launch for the pleasure trips. All report a happy time.

The farmers are preparing to grind cane, and "long sweet'ning" will soon be on the market and many will be glad to paste their batter cakes and biscuit with the delicious vaporation.

Mrs. S. A. Bryan of Starke and daughter, Gertrude, and son, Roland, visited her son, Walter Bryant, this week. They added to their roll of acquaintance quite a number of friends here.

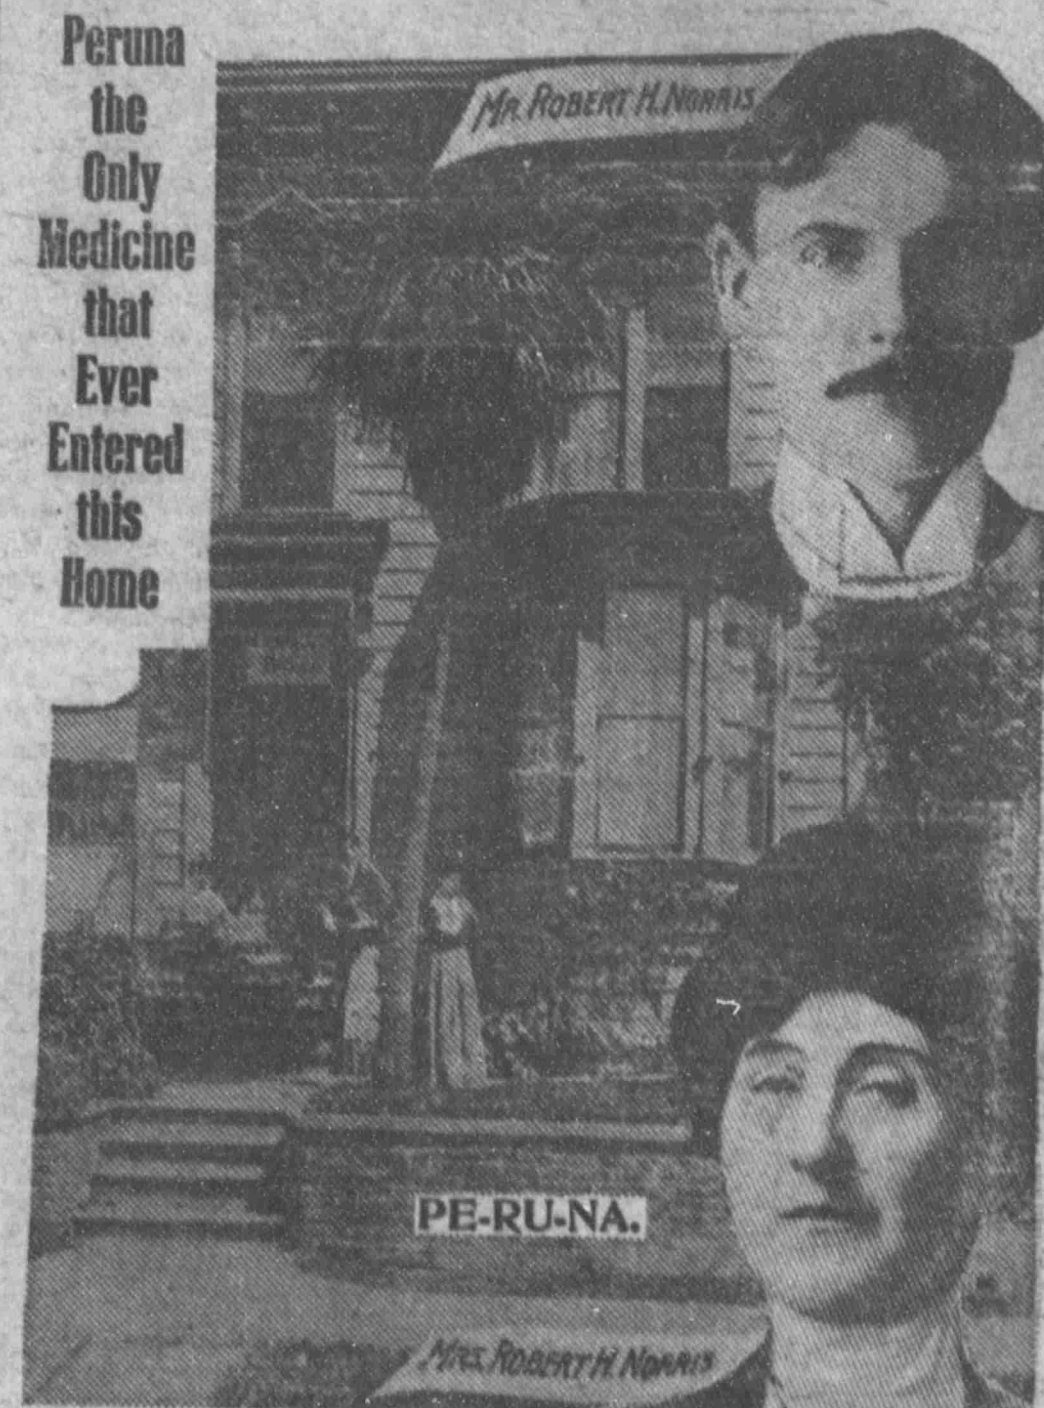

Mrs. Guy Trammell and sister, Miss Lizzie Collins, are visiting at Trenton this week.

J. S. Painter has purchased a fine span of mules of Oliver & Kite that suits the eye of the tie men, and no doubt others will follow suit.

Seemingly Wilcox merchants are doing a good business, at least a number of drummers visit here frequently.

BAIRD HARDWARE COMPANY

FINDS HER DAUGHTER THROUGH A DREAM

THIS WAS EXPERIENCE OF MRS.
ELLIS OF PENSACOLA.

Dreamed Her Daughter Was in Jonesboro, Tenn., and Found the Dream Was True.

(Pensacola Journal.)

Finding her daughter, of whom she had not heard for eighteen years, through the medium of a dream, is the experience of Mrs. B. L. Ellis, residing at No. 117 East Intendencia street, who left here Thursday night for Jonesboro, Tenn., where she located her daughter, after correspondence taken up immediately after the dream.

According to Mrs. Ellis, her husband, the sole support of herself and infant daughter, died eighteen years ago in Jonesboro, Tenn., leaving her without money to take care of herself and child. At that time a neighbor offered to take care for the little one until Mrs. Ellis was in a position to take the child, and the offer was accepted, Mrs. Ellis coming too Pensacola.

where she has since resided. After establishing herself here she decided to take charge of her little one, but she received no replies to her letters. Then she boarded a train for Jonesboro and went to the home where the family resided with whom she had left her daughter. To her great disappointment she found the house vacant, while nearby residents stated that the family had moved to parts unknown.

Instituted Search.

Mrs. Ellis returned to Pensacola greatly disappointed, but she did not abandon the search, but employed agents and detectives who advertised and searched in many cities of the country at a cost to her of nearly $3,000, but no trace of her little daughter could be found.

Finally the search was given up in despair.

One night, after a long day of worry, Mrs. Ellis states that she had a dream. This was that she had read an advertisement in The Pensacola Journal, in which her daughter was advertising for her mother. On awakening, she realized that it was only a dream, but it so impressed her that she could not dismiss it from her mind.

To relieve her mind, she wrote to a man she had formerly known in Jonesboro. She did not write to her daughter at the address given in the

CHILD ATE AN ENTIRE BOX OF CUTICURA

Spread on Some Crackers—Not the Slightest Injury Resulted from Little Fellow's Escapade—In Most Positive Way Ingredients of

CUTICURA PROVEN PURE SWEET AND HARMLESS

A New York friend of Cuticura writes the following interesting letter:—

"My three year old son and heir, after being put to bed on a trip across the Atlantic, investigated the stateroom and located a box of graham crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment."

"When a search was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more conclusive evidence than the above could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. If it may be safely eaten by a young child, none but the most beneficial results can be expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin or youngest infant. This feeling is shared by mothers and nurses to such an extent that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have for many years been unhesitatingly used throughout the civilized world for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants and children from the hour of birth. And greater still, if possible, is the confidence reposed in Cuticura Remedies for the treatment of torturing and disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp. The suffering which they have thus alleviated among the young and the comfort they have afforded worn-out and worried parents have led to their adoption in countless homes as priceless agents in the speedy, permanent, safe and economical treatment of infantile and birth humors, sores, rashes, irritations, inflammations and chafings, and other itching, scaly and pimply humors when all other remedies suitable for children fail.

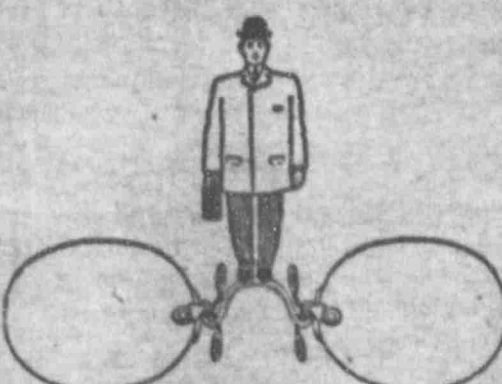

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27, Charterhouse St.; Paris, 1, Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; South Africa, Lennon, Ltd., Cape Town, East London, etc.; Russia, Ferrein, Moscow; Japan, Maruya, Ltd., Tokyo; U. S. A., Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

dream, for she knew that she could not stand the shock if she did not receive an answer. The man answered the letter, stating that her daughter was there and had been married for four years to a jeweler in good circumstances.

Daughter Receives News.

The news was immediately conveyed to Mrs. Dunn, the daughter, and the shock caused her to go into a faint. She had been led to believe, it is stated by the people who had adopted her, that her mother had died in Texas. She had been formally and legally adopted by the family and had been given an excellent education. She is an accomplished musician as well as proficient stenographer and book-keeper.

Mrs. Ellis goes to Jonesboro with the expectation of bringing her daughter and son-in-law back to Pensacola with her.

OKLAHOMA SEMINOLES VISIT THE EVERGLADES

The Baptist Missionaries Who Come to Florida to Evangelize Their Pagan Tribesmen.

One of the most remarkable evangelizing pilgrimages made in this country was witnessed in the coming of a number of Oklahoma Seminole Indians to evangelize the remnants of the race now living in the Everglades, near the Miami Metropolis.

Capt. O. N. Bie has just returned from a visit to Jupiter. He was there with a company of well-dressed Seminole Indians from Oklahoma who came from the train, and he was witness to the first service held on the banks of inlet. A number of Indians from the Everglades had come to meet their fellow tribesmen from West. There were some twelve of the Florida Seminoles, without hats and without hats, who came in response to the call that had been sent them to meet their visiting brethren. There were fifteen of the Christian Indians. Among them there was a wonderfully beautiful young woman, Capt. Bie. The Captain intended that this beautiful Indian maid be evangelized enough to evangelize any ordinary pagan. She belonged to the tribe of the Bowlegs or Billy Taft.

The visiting Indians dress after the civilized mode, and they were not only well dressed, and well educated, but they seemed to have plenty of money. They took their ease in the Pullman car on the way down, and were not the least ill at ease, exhibiting their familiarity with the ways of the world.

The service was simple but impressive. Capt. Bie says that he and several other whites took part in it. There was no demonstration on the part of the native Indians, but they were very attentive to the addresses made by their more civilized tribesmen.

One of the visiting Indians came to Florida about two years ago and visited the camps of his tribe in the Everglades, so he knows the paths of the forest already and will act as pilot for his company. A little later they will come as far as Lauderdale and will hold meetings there or go out into the Everglades from that point. It is expected that they will visit the camps on the west side of the 'Glades also, and that they will spend several months in the State. The evangelists represent the Baptist faith. Capt. Bie succeeded in getting several very good snap shots after the meeting at Jupiter Sunday.

Gov. Ansel Predicts South Will Be Solid Prohibition

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—According to Governor M. F. Ansel of South Carolina the South will stand solidly for prohibition within the next five years.

Governor Ansel is in the city to the annual meeting of the Southern Educational fund. He looks to me as if the South would stand solidly for prohibition within the next five years," declared the Governor, "prohibition is making tremendous headway all through the South. In my State, the place where a thirsty man can get a drink are few and far between. And then he proceeded to say that prohibition had gained a foothold in the State and spread prior to last year.

When additional counties went

'dry' at the elections in that month," he continued, "and after November 15, next, it will be possible to get a drink in only six counties of the State, and then only through medium of the county dispensary."

Governor Ansel discussed other phases of the liquor question, and concluded by saying, that "there is no doubt that the prohibition movement has come to stay, and that it is making steady progress." Such a potent factor has it become throughout the South, he stated, that all political parties are forced to recognize the issue.

BITTEN BY RATTLER.

Capt. Cox of University Suffers Much Pain From the Bite.

Capt. N. H. Cox of the University is confined to his room as the result of having been bitten by a ground rattlesnake, which he took to be among the innocent species of snakes.

He was near the T. & J. water tank last week when he came across the reptile, and thinking it one of the kind that was not poisonous picked it up to take to the University. The snake bit him and within a few minutes the left thumb of his hand was green and he became deathly sick, having to be taken to the University by a friend for treatment.

He has suffered much pain as a result of the bite, and while he is out of all danger the bite has caused him no end of trouble, and it was only the quick action of being taken where he could receive treatment that probably saved his life.

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces.
